Introduction

1. The Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific held its seventy-sixth session at the United Nations Conference Centre in Bangkok on 21 May 2020 via videoconferencing owing to the coronavirus disease (COVID-19) pandemic. The present report covers the period from 1 June 2019 to 21 May 2020 and contains the conclusions reached by the Commission.

Chapter I

Matters calling for action by the Economic and Social Council or brought to its attention

2. At its seventy-sixth session, the Commission adopted two resolutions and 19 decisions, which are reproduced below. The two resolutions are brought to the attention of the Council. Statements in explanation of position delivered by delegations are set out in section B.

A. Resolutions adopted by the Commission at its seventy-sixth session

Resolution 76/1
Strengthening cooperation to promote the conservation and sustainable use of the oceans, seas and marine resources for sustainable development in Asia and the Pacific

The Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific,

Recalling General Assembly resolution 69/313 of 27 July 2015 on the Addis Ababa Action Agenda of the Third International Conference on Financing for Development, which is an integral part of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development that supports the attainment of Sustainable Development Goal 14 targets through concrete policies and actions,

Recalling also General Assembly resolution 70/1 of 25 September 2015, entitled “Transforming our world: the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development”, and stressing the importance of concerted efforts to achieve the Sustainable Development Goals, including Goal 14 on conserving and sustainably using the oceans, seas and marine resources for sustainable development,

Recalling further General Assembly resolution 71/312 of 6 July 2017, in which the Assembly endorsed the declaration entitled “Our ocean, our future: call for action”, adopted in June 2017 by the United Nations Conference to Support the Implementation of Sustainable Development Goal 14: Conserve and sustainably use the oceans, seas and marine resources for sustainable development,

Recalling General Assembly resolution 74/19 of 10 December 2019 on oceans and the law of the sea and resolution 74/210 of 19 December 2019 on strengthening cooperation for integrated coastal zone management for achieving sustainable development,

Recalling also General Assembly resolution 73/292 of 9 May 2019, entitled “2020 United Nations Conference to Support the Implementation of Sustainable Development Goal 14: Conserve and sustainably use the oceans, seas and marine resources for sustainable development”, in which the Assembly decided to convene said Conference in Lisbon from 2 to 6 June 2020 with the overarching theme “Scaling up ocean action based on science and innovation for the implementation of Goal 14: stocktaking, partnerships and solutions” and decision 74/548 of 13 April 2020 in which... the Assembly decided to postpone the Conference to a later date to be decided by the Assembly,

Recalling further General Assembly resolution 72/73 of 5 December 2017, in which it proclaimed the United Nations Decade of Ocean Science for Sustainable Development for the 10-year period beginning on 1 January 2021, within existing structures and available resources, and called upon the Intergovernmental Oceanographic Commission to prepare an implementation plan for the Decade in consultation with Member States, specialized agencies, funds, programmes and bodies of the United Nations, as well as other intergovernmental organizations, non-governmental organizations and relevant stakeholders,

Recalling resolution 70/7 of 8 August 2014 of the Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific on the implementation of the Suva Declaration on Improving Maritime Transport and Related Services in the Pacific, its resolution 71/6 of 29 May 2015 on maritime transport connectivity for sustainable development, its resolution 72/9 of 19 May 2016 on regional cooperation to promote the conservation and sustainable use of the oceans, seas and marine resources for sustainable development in Asia and the Pacific, its resolution 73/4 of 19 May 2017 on the implementation of the Ministerial Declaration on Sustainable Transport Connectivity in Asia and the Pacific and its resolution 73/5 of 19 May 2017 on strengthening Asia-Pacific’s support for the United Nations Conference to Support the Implementation of Sustainable Development Goal 14,

Recognizing the importance of the conservation and sustainable use of marine and coastal resources in Asia and the Pacific, which promote economic growth, environmental sustainability and social inclusion and can help member States in the region, in particular the least developed countries, small island developing States and landlocked developing countries, as well as developing middle-income countries, to address their sustainable development challenges,

Taking note of the Special Report on the Ocean and the Cryosphere in a Changing Climate of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change,

Taking note also of the theme study for the seventy-sixth session of the Commission, in which the secretariat presents research on promoting economic, social and environmental cooperation on the oceans for sustainable development, including, but not limited to, issues related to sustainable fisheries, maritime connectivity, marine plastic debris and the need to promote multi-stakeholder dialogue,

1. Noting the role of relevant national policies and frameworks, calls upon all members and associate members, and relevant stakeholders, to take urgent actions for the conservation and sustainable use of the oceans, seas and marine resources, and, in this regard, to share good practices and lessons learned, including from the respective voluntary commitments made at the United Nations Conference to Support the Implementation of Sustainable Development Goal 14: Conserve and sustainably use the oceans, seas and marine resources for sustainable development in June 2017 and at the “Our Ocean” Conferences;

2. Recalls General Assembly resolution 74/19 of 10 December 2019 on oceans and the law of the sea and its preambular paragraphs on the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea and notes the other international agreements, as applicable;

3. Cognizant of the challenges posed by the coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19) outbreak, which may hamper the progress towards the achievement of the Sustainable Development Goals, encourages member States to strengthen regional economic, social and environmental cooperation on the oceans, seas and marine resources in Asia and the Pacific for the benefit of the sustainable development of all member States of the Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific and the attainment of the Goals, including by:

(a) Enhancing the capacity of member States for the protection of the marine environment and resources, including the environment of coastal areas, for economic development in an environmentally sound and inclusive manner, and for the promotion of, inter alia, related research and development, application of modern tools like marine spatial planning, where applicable, ocean literacy, investments, social and environmental safeguards, capacity-building and transfer of technology on mutually agreed terms;

(b) Encouraging the implementation of policies built on sound science and considering applicable market-based approaches, as appropriate, to reduce marine pollution from various sources in the region, in particular marine plastic, aiming to reduce additional pollution by marine plastic litter to zero by 2050, including through a life-cycle approach and by promoting environmentally sound waste management, recycling capacity and innovative solutions, while recognizing the important role of plastics in society, and the consideration of voluntary and qualitative estimations of marine plastic debris by member States;

(c) Promoting North-South, South-South and triangular cooperation for capacity-building and information-sharing, including science-based decision-making and policy development on oceans and seas, guided by all the principles of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development;

(d) Promoting public-private and civil society partnerships to increase economic benefits to small island developing States and the least developed countries from the conservation and sustainable use of marine resources, including sustainable management of fisheries, aquaculture and tourism, and through coastal habitat restoration efforts;

(e) Promoting partnerships and developing innovative approaches in line with the challenges and opportunities of the oceans, seas and climate change, contributing to global actions of international organizations, through collaboration with stakeholders and, inter alia, the Asian and Pacific Centre for the Development of Disaster Information Management, promoting discussion on the issues pertaining to disaster risk reduction and post-disaster recovery, and sharing information and expertise for building resilience and multi-hazard early warning systems for the member countries in the Asia-Pacific region;

(f) Promoting synergy among the Sustainable Development Goals, in particular between Goal 13 on climate action and Goal 14 on life below water, at the regional level, with a view to supporting global action to address these Goals and to highlight the importance of the ocean, including as an integral part of the Earth’s climate system, and of ensuring the integrity of ocean and coastal ecosystems, as well as promoting synergy between the Goals and the societal outcomes of the United Nations Decade of Ocean Science for Sustainable Development (2021–2030);

(g) Implementing policies for marine invasive species management by increasing scientific knowledge of marine invasive species and improving its availability and dissemination, utilizing marine spatial planning and ecosystem-based approaches for conserving marine ecosystems and promoting the protection of sites of particular importance for biodiversity;

(h) Strengthening cooperation and policy coherence among institutions at all levels, including between and among international, regional and subregional organizations;

4. Requests the Executive Secretary:

(a) To continue to strengthen current partnerships and to develop new partnerships, where appropriate, for the conservation and sustainable use of the oceans, seas and marine resources, including through participatory, multi-stakeholder dialogue platforms;
(b) To continue to strengthen and facilitate national capacities and to provide, upon request, and within existing resources, technical assistance for the effective implementation of relevant internationally agreed conventions to conserve and sustainably use the oceans, seas and marine resources, in collaboration with relevant United Nations bodies and specialized agencies and regional and subregional organizations, in line with their existing mandates;

(c) To continue to support countries, in particular least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States, as well as developing middle-income countries, in sharing experiences as well as in enhancing cooperation on the conservation and sustainable use of marine resources, including ecosystem restoration and sustainable management of fisheries, aquaculture and tourism and through coastal habitat restoration efforts, in light of the regional road map for implementing the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development in Asia and the Pacific;\(^5\)

(d) To continue to strengthen and facilitate national capacities, including through engagement with the Global Ocean Accounts Partnership, on a voluntary basis, for measurement and accounting of progress towards the sustainable development of the oceans, in line with the document entitled “Advancing official statistics for the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development: a collective vision and framework for action by the Asia-Pacific statistical community”,\(^6\) endorsed by the Committee on Statistics at its fifth session;

(e) To continue to support systematic regional dialogue on sustainable maritime connectivity, in close collaboration with the key global and regional stakeholders, and as part of the work of the Commission on promoting sustainable transport connectivity in the region;

5. Also requests the Executive Secretary to report to the Commission at its seventy-eighth session on progress in the implementation of the present resolution.

2nd plenary meeting
21 May 2020

Resolution 76/2
Regional cooperation to address the socioeconomic effects of pandemics and crises in Asia and the Pacific

The Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific,

Expressing condolences and grave concern about the loss of life as a result of the coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19) pandemic and the significant adverse social and economic effects it has posed globally, and in particular in the Asia-Pacific region, especially with regard to vulnerable developing countries and countries with special needs, and recognizing that the prioritization of fighting the disease is saving lives and protecting people in vulnerable situations from the pandemic by stopping its spread and mitigating its effects on the health of people, and that increased poverty and inequalities may affect the achievement of the Sustainable Development Goals,

Expressing grave concern also about the uneven effects the COVID-19 pandemic has had on countries and individuals, and, in this regard, reaffirming that all efforts to address and recover from the effects of the pandemic should be people-centred, with no one left behind, and that all countries and individuals have unimpeded access to assistance and support that is available,

Guided by the spirit of unity, solidarity and multilateral cooperation, and resolving to pursue coordinated and decisive actions, to contain, mitigate and defeat the pandemic through reinforced regional and global cooperation,

\(^5\) E/ESCAP/73/31, annex II.
\(^6\) E/ESCAP/CST(5)/1/Rev.1.
Declaring our profound solidarity with the most affected countries and people in different parts of the world who have suffered from the spread of the pandemic and mindful of the need to support those who may require assistance, in particular by providing technical assistance to those most affected, with particular emphasis on developing countries, whose health systems are often weaker and whose populations are more vulnerable to the impact of such outbreaks,

Recalling General Assembly resolution 74/274 of 20 April 2020 on international cooperation to ensure global access to medicines, vaccines and medical equipment to face COVID-19, resolution 74/270 of 2 April 2020 on the global solidarity to fight COVID-19 and resolution 60/35 of 30 November 2005 on enhancing capacity-building in global public health,

Recalling also resolutions 60/2 of 28 April 2004 and 61/12 of 18 May 2005 of the Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific on the regional call for action to enhance capacity-building in public health and resolution 74/11 of 16 May 2018 on strengthening regional cooperation to tackle inequality in all its forms in Asia and the Pacific,

Noting General Assembly resolution 67/81 of 12 December 2012 on global health and foreign policy and resolution 73/2 of 10 October 2018 on the political declaration of the third high-level meeting of the Assembly on the prevention and control of non-communicable diseases,

Reaffirming the political declaration of the high-level meeting on universal health coverage, entitled “Universal health coverage: moving together to build a healthier world”,

Welcoming current international, regional and subregional cooperation efforts and commitments and national actions to address and alleviate the adverse effects of the COVID-19 pandemic,

Reaffirming the fundamental role of the United Nations system, in particular the importance of the World Health Organization, in coordinating the global response to control and contain the spread of COVID-19 and in supporting Member States,

Noting the wide range of efforts across the United Nations system to support actions by countries to respond to the COVID-19 pandemic, including the report of the Executive Secretary,

Expressing appreciation for the launch of the United Nations COVID-19 Response and Recovery Fund to help support low- and middle-income countries and the poor and most vulnerable to economic hardship and social disruption,

Recognizing that recovery from the COVID-19 pandemic and other related future crises should not hinder the continued progress towards implementation of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and the achievement of the Sustainable Development Goals,

Recognizing also that a regional approach will enable a collective examination of the impacts to the Asia-Pacific region, economic and social measures, and sharing of best practices and lessons learned,

Recognizing further that the COVID-19 pandemic is an opportunity for governments and other relevant stakeholders in the region to build their crisis resilience by including risk assessment in all development action,
1. Reaffirms the importance of international and regional cooperation to strengthen the resilience of all members and associate members, in particular least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States, as well as developing countries, with regard to the socioeconomic effects of pandemics and other related crises;

2. Acknowledges the importance of ensuring the continued flow of essential goods and services and the movement of people in order to face the challenges of the adverse effects of the pandemic and other related crises in the spirit of good neighbours;

3. Encourages countries, in the spirit of multilateralism, to highlight the inequality gaps, poverty and escalating health risks for millions of people due to the coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19);

4. Emphasizes that recovery from the COVID-19 crisis provides an opportunity to build back better in Asia and the Pacific, including by building more equal, inclusive and sustainable institutions, economies and societies that respect human rights and are more resilient in the face of any future pandemic, and other related crises faced by the region, in line with the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development;⁹

5. Reaffirms the decade of action and delivery for sustainable development, and in this regard underlines the need for the United Nations system to work as one to support all Governments;

6. Reiterates the importance of multilateralism and international cooperation, and encourages action by all members of the Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific to promote measures that may reinforce global solidarity in responding to the outbreak of COVID-19;

7. Requests the Executive Secretary, in close coordination and consultation with member States and other relevant United Nations bodies and organizations, to analyse the ability of the Asia-Pacific region to recover from COVID-19 and other pandemics and similar widespread crises, to develop ideas for concrete and coordinated actions by countries, the United Nations system and other relevant stakeholders, including proposals for responding to the socioeconomic impacts of COVID-19 and future pandemics and related widespread crises in the region, keeping in mind the experience and best practices of the initial response, to enable countries to build back better in line with the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, and to submit a report to the Commission at its seventy-seventh session for its consideration.

2nd plenary meeting
21 May 2020

B. Statements in explanation of position in relation to the resolutions adopted by the Commission at its seventy-sixth session

3. Prior to the adoption of resolution 76/1, the representative of Turkey stated her Government’s reservation related to operative paragraph 2 of the resolution. While stating her delegation’s full commitment to cooperation to promote the conservation and sustainable use of oceans, seas and marine resources, her Government disassociated itself from the reference made in operative paragraph 2 to the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea to which Turkey was not a party. She further stated that the reference could not be construed as a change in the well-known legal position of Turkey with regard to the said Convention. Moreover, in relation to operative paragraph 3, she emphasized that marine spatial planning was not yet a functioning instrument established in every country. Therefore, all references to marine spatial planning were to be understood as valid for the countries and venues where it was applicable.
4. The representative of the Islamic Republic of Iran stated the view of his delegation that, while recalling the importance of the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea, which provided a general legal framework for the conservation and sustainable use of oceans and their resources, and admitting the obligation of the Islamic Republic of Iran as a signatory of the Convention not to act against the objective and purpose of the Convention, the resolution could not affect the legal status of non-parties to the Convention and any other relevant agreements and that the Convention and other relevant international agreements were considered as a package with the same level of importance.

5. The representative of the United States of America said that his delegation joined consensus on that resolution and was proud to be a leader on international efforts to conserve and sustainably use the ocean and its resources and to promote a thriving, sustainable ocean economy. He noted that the United States proudly supported global and regional efforts to prevent and reduce marine pollution, including the millions of tons of plastic debris that flowed into the ocean every year; to measure and address the impacts of ocean acidification; to promote international cooperation on marine protected areas; and to ensure safe, secure and clean shipping. He stressed that many of those efforts depended on sustained and focused international cooperation, especially between Governments and the private sector. At the same time, he underscored that that non-binding document did not create rights or obligations under international law. With reference to the special reports of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change, he stated that acceptance of such reports and approval of their summaries for policymakers did not imply endorsement by his delegation of the specific findings or underlying contents of the reports, and was without prejudice to his delegation’s positions. Regarding operative paragraph 3 (a), he said that inclusion of only “social” and “environmental” safeguards ignored the economic safeguards needed for investment in the sustainable development of the marine environment and resources of the coastal areas. Regarding references to the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, he said that his delegation recognized the 2030 Agenda as a global voluntary framework for sustainable development that could help countries to work towards global peace and prosperity. His delegation applauded the call for shared responsibility, including national responsibility, in the 2030 Agenda and emphasized that all countries had a role to play in achieving its vision, in accordance with their own national policies and priorities. He underscored that paragraph 18 of the 2030 Agenda called for countries to implement the Agenda in a manner that was consistent with the rights and obligations of States under international law. He highlighted that implementation of the 2030 Agenda had to respect and be without prejudice to the independent mandates of other processes and institutions, including negotiations, and did not prejudice or serve as precedent for decisions and actions under way in other forums. For example, the 2030 Agenda did not represent a commitment to provide new market access for goods or services and did not interpret or alter any World Trade Organization agreement or decision, including the Agreement on Trade-Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights.

6. Prior to the adoption of resolution 76/2, the representative of the Islamic Republic of Iran stated that his delegation had joined the consensus on the resolution in supporting multilateralism and coordinated collective action in mitigating the negative effects of the COVID-19 pandemic in the region in the spirit of unity, solidarity and decisive action. At the same time, his delegation reiterated its deep concern regarding the negative impacts of unilateral coercive measures and illegal and unjust sanctions imposed against his and other countries, which were contrary to the principles of international law, increased the poverty gap, created obstacles for the achievement of the Sustainable Development Goals and disrupted and impeded access to humanitarian resources and necessary medical equipment to combat the COVID-19 pandemic. He expressed the hope of his delegation that other members would condemn such unilateral coercive measures that negatively affected the regional solidarity in responding to the pandemic.

7. The representative of the United States of America said that his delegation joined consensus on that resolution but disassociated itself from preambular paragraph 10. He noted that his delegation continued to demonstrate global leadership in the face of the COVID-19 pandemic and remained the largest single country donor to the response efforts globally, building on decades of leadership in life-saving health and humanitarian assistance. At the same time, he underscored that that non-binding document did not create rights or obligations under international law. Regarding references to the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, he said that his delegation recognized the 2030 Agenda as a global voluntary framework for sustainable development that could help countries to work towards global peace and prosperity. His delegation applauded the call for shared responsibility, including national responsibility, in the 2030 Agenda and emphasized that all countries had a role to play in achieving its vision, in accordance with their own national policies and priorities. He underscored that paragraph 18 of the 2030 Agenda called for countries to implement the Agenda in a manner that was consistent with the rights and obligations of States under international law. He highlighted that implementation of the 2030 Agenda had to respect and be without prejudice to the independent mandates of other processes and institutions, including negotiations, and did not prejudice or serve as precedent for decisions and actions under way in other forums. For example, the Agenda did not represent a commitment to provide new market access for goods or services and did not interpret or alter any World Trade Organization agreement or decision, including the Agreement on Trade-Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights. He clarified that his delegation disassociated itself from the reference to the World Health Organization (WHO) in preambular paragraph 10. While his delegation acknowledged that WHO should play a role in the efforts to end the outbreak, it remained seriously concerned with the lack of independence that the leadership of WHO had shown since the beginning of the pandemic. He recalled the announcement made by his delegation on 14 April 2020 that his delegation would pause funding to WHO pending a review of the organization’s mismanagement of the outbreak of the novel coronavirus, and insisted that WHO advance the health of people around the world in a transparent, science-based manner that incorporated accountability into its decision-making. He also called on Member States to comply with their obligations under the International Health Regulations (2005) to provide complete data on cases of COVID-19 within their territories and to share samples and genetic sequences of the novel coronavirus with the international community.

C. Decisions adopted by the Commission at its seventy-sixth session

Decision 76/1

At its 2nd plenary meeting, on 21 May 2020, the Commission took note of the executive summary of the Asia-Pacific Countries with Special Needs Development Report 2020: Leveraging Ocean Resources for the Sustainable Development of Small Island Developing States (ESCAP/76/2/Rev.1).

Decision 76/2
Matters calling for action by the Commission or brought to its attention emanating from the meetings of its subsidiary bodies held in the period 2019–2020

At its 2nd plenary meeting, on 21 May 2020, the Commission endorsed the matters calling for action by the Commission or brought to its attention emanating from the meetings of its subsidiary bodies held in the period 2019–2020 (ESCAP/76/6).

Annex IV

Election of the members of the Governing Council of the Asian and Pacific Centre for Transfer of Technology

1. In addition to the host country, India, the Commission elected the following members and associate members to the Governing Council of the Asian and Pacific Centre for Transfer of Technology for the period from 2020 to 2023: Bangladesh; China; Indonesia; Islamic Republic of Iran; Nepal; Pakistan; Republic of Korea; Sri Lanka; Thailand; and Uzbekistan.

2. Prior to the election, the representative of the United States of America expressed his delegation’s concern about the participation of the Islamic Republic of Iran in the Governing Council given its role as one of the leading State sponsors of terror, its continued violations of international norms and its abuse of technology transfer to support its nuclear programme and regional missile proliferation.

3. The representative of the Islamic Republic of Iran, speaking in exercise of his right of reply, said that everybody knew which country was a State sponsor of terrorism and was supporting and initiating economic terrorism against his country and other countries. He stated the view of his delegation that the United States of America was not in a position to accuse other countries that were trying to exercise self-defence and the right to development.
Annex V

Chair’s summary of proceedings of the seventy-sixth session of the Commission

Agenda item 2
General debate on the theme topic “Promoting economic, social and environmental cooperation on oceans for sustainable development”

1. The Commission welcomed the theme of the session, noting its relevance for the region, and highlighted the key role played by oceans, seas and marine resources in the attainment of the Sustainable Development Goals, as drivers of economic growth, and as a source of livelihood and food for millions of people. The Commission acknowledged key challenges for the oceans, such as unsustainable fishing practices and marine debris and plastics pollution, which required urgent action and strengthened regional cooperation, including in terms of sharing data, conducting joint research, sharing of knowledge and expertise, transfer of technology, and conserving biodiversity. In that regard, several members also noted the importance of using existing conventions, frameworks and tools.

2. Representatives reported on ongoing national, subregional and regional efforts to conserve and sustainably use oceans, seas and marine resources and called upon the Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific (ESCAP) and the United Nations development system to step up their regional cooperation efforts. In particular, members of the Commission noted the importance of data and statistics for addressing the challenges with regards to oceans. Noting that limited technical and financial capabilities in many developing countries limited their ability to collect data, they called upon the secretariat to help to build capacity for data collection and analysis. Several members noted the need for a standard methodology for data collection and the importance of developing ocean accounts. In that regard, they acknowledged the key role played by ESCAP and the United Nations Environment Programme in leading global efforts to develop statistical guidance based on the System of Environmental-Economic Accounting and suggested including linkages to other sectors.

Agenda item 3
Special Body on Least Developed, Landlocked Developing and Pacific Island Developing Countries

3. Some members in the least developed country category reiterated their commitment to the Programme of Action for the Least Developed Countries for the Decade 2011–2020 and shared national actions taken to further its implementation, including harnessing the potential of oceans, seas and marine resources through a blue economy approach. They highlighted how the coronavirus disease (COVID-19) pandemic was hampering and threatening their efforts to graduate from the least developed country category and called for continued support and financial assistance from the international community.

4. Representatives of small island developing States emphasized the importance of tourism and fisheries for their sustainable development and the achievement of the Sustainable Development Goals. They called for the strengthening of regional and subregional mechanisms, including the institutionalization of the Asia-Pacific Day for the Ocean, as a useful platform for bringing stakeholders together to share experiences and knowledge. Noting the impact that the COVID-19 pandemic had on tourism, they called for the development of a regional strategy to revive tourism. They noted the importance of enforcing global and regional norms, standards and instruments to address the challenges with regards to oceans, including the Code of Conduct for Responsible Fisheries and the Agreement on Port State Measures to Prevent, Deter and Eliminate Illegal, Unreported and Unregulated Fishing.
5. A representative from a landlocked developing country highlighted the challenges posed by the lack of access to the sea and noted the importance of the growing tourism sector for her country.

Agenda item 4

Regional cooperation to address the socioeconomic effects of the global health crisis

6. The Commission highlighted the unprecedented challenges brought about by COVID-19 and its socioeconomic impacts in the region, which had further exposed underlying inequalities and vulnerabilities. The crisis was severely affecting revenues, especially in least developed countries, landlocked developing countries and small island developing States. Members recognized that no country alone could tackle the challenge and called for strengthened regional cooperation, in particular in terms of sharing knowledge, experiences and good practices. Some members noted the importance of ensuring the free flow of goods and services, while others called for debt relief measures.

7. Members of the Commission highlighted various initiatives taken at the national, subregional and regional levels to address the COVID-19 pandemic and its effects and reaffirmed the central role of the United Nations development system in assisting countries in addressing the pandemic and its effects and in strengthening resilience to future pandemics. In that regard, the Commission noted the imperative of building back better, balancing the economic, social and environmental dimensions of sustainable development, and the need to use the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and the Paris Agreement as the basis for recovery, noting that the region could not afford to go back to its previous development model.
