What is the Indigenous Navigator?

The Indigenous Navigator is a community monitoring framework by and for Indigenous communities, equipping them with the tools to monitor the implementation of the UN Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples (UNDRIP), ILO Indigenous and Tribal Peoples Convention, 1989 (No. 169), core human rights conventions, the outcomes of the World Conference on Indigenous Peoples, and essential aspects of the Sustainable Development Goals.

Scan the QR code or visit our website to find out more:

indigenousnavigator.org
How is the Indigenous Navigator useful for Indigenous Peoples?

- It contributes to making the Sustainable Development Goals work for Indigenous Peoples.
- It empowers Indigenous communities to plan for sustainable development and develop strategic advocacy plans.
- It provides data alternative to official narrative and useful to hold states accountable.
- It helps visualize gaps in the implementation of Indigenous Peoples’ rights.
- It informs dialogue between Indigenous communities and key national and international actors.
- It facilitates Indigenous Peoples’ access to justice and exchange of best practices.

This initiative is a collaborative effort developed by:

- AIPP
- Forest Peoples Programme
- TEBTEBBA
- The Danish Institute for Human Rights
- IWGIA