The progress gap for achieving the SDGs grows wider in Asia-Pacific.
Average progress in the region disproportionately excludes some groups, and subregions.
Data availability has doubled since 2017, but 34% of targets still can’t be measured.