

ICAAP11

a quick postmortem

What did we want from the conference?

Wish we had asked that question more emphatically a few months ago!!

Expectations

ICAAP11, Leadership Forum, Lancet,
Community consultations pre conference.....

- Highlight need for focus (geographic, key pops, cities focus)
- Position MSM issues at the centre of the Asian response
- Need for innovation - community based testing and treatment
- Smarter investments, highlight diminishing external financing and need to move towards innovative financing

Key Stats

Plenary: 3
Symposiums: 26
Satellite Sessions: 57
Skills Building Workshops: 45
Oral sessions: 30
E-poster Discussion sessions: 23

Participants: over 3800 delegates
Countries represented: over 74
Countries

Presentation Statistics

Symposium presentations: 91
Satellite presentations: 220
Skills Building workshops: 34
Oral Presentations: 144
E-Poster Discussions: 51 e-posters discussed E-Posters displayed: 913 uploaded Over 500 Presentations viewed

Pleasant surprise!

Three Zeroes

The good, bad and ugly

- Excellent participation, dynamics and engagement of key stakeholders
- Significant number of 'new' participants
- Excellent media coverage
- Excellent use of technology
- Too many sessions
- NATO - So what?
- Poor accountability and follow up systems

- HIV is still relevant and should not be left out of the post 2015 agenda
- Broad consensus on need for greater focus – both geographical and emphasis on key populations
- Need for scaling up treatment and centrality of community in testing and treatment scale up
- Recognition of the changing financial landscape and need for prioritization and moving beyond dependency
- Recognition of need for human rights centered responses and need to address stigma discrimination issues

So, what does all this mean?

- Do regional conferences in current environment have an impact?
- What do conferences really aim to achieve? Are there different business models that can be explored?
- What was the transaction cost and is this a good investment?
- How can we make the most of what we have?